Distributed power generation of Russia. Maksim Zagornov is a guest of Boris Martsinkevich’s program

December 21, 2021

Maksim Zagornov, Director of MKC Group of Companies and President of Distributed Power Generation Association became the guest of a program by well-known industry blogger Boris Martsinkevich. The Geoenergetics YouTube channel published a big interview, during which experts discussed the hottest industry issues. How did the distributed power generation industry in Russia survive the crisis year of 2021? What is going on in the market right now? Why is business leaving the grid and what can a straightforward opposition to these processes by monopoly companies lead to? What are the prospects for traditional and alternative energy in Russia? And finally, what is the secret of success of MKC Group of Companies and Distributed Power Generation Association, which have been implementing notable social and business projects for more than 10 years?